

A NATION DIVIDED - THE SECOND CIVIL WAR (The Second Civil War - BOOK I 1)

What happens when the government oversteps its purpose and authority? The purpose of the government is to ensure our freedom and to protect our liberty. Its purpose is NOT to control our personal lives and to deprive us of our Constitutional rights. How many would fight to maintain their freedom and Constitutional rights? How many would stick their heads in the sand and hope somehow it would be all right? It is one thing to want peace but quite another to be too afraid to stand up for what is right. The fastest way to become a slave of the state is to fail to stand up against the dismissal of the Constitution. Those who fight the government would be called traitors or worse. Is that the truth? If the government is no longer serving the people that they were elected to serve and making sure that our freedoms are secure, who are the real traitors? Those who will stand up and say that enough is enough will be the true heroes of tomorrow. They will be on the front lines of the Second Civil War.
