

In the Meadow - Forgotten

It is amazing how loud a mind can become amidst a silent room. The ever-changing forms of love of peace of anger of hatred of depression of freedom of outer space of just about anything can enter as they please and awaken inspiration or aggravate emotions. Most people would let their thoughts pass by without transcribing. Imagine what one would have greatly lost had the thoughts been neglected and ignored. This particular being had to empty the million thoughts in order to stay sane, in order to reach serenity, in order to find oneself, in order to liberate and enjoy the power of the human mind and soul. In the end it all culminates to deciphering, understanding, accepting, and unraveling the meaning and approach to this particular life.
